About

Paul Harfleet is an award-winning artist, author and speaker whose work centres LGBTQ+ visibility, remembrance and belonging. For over twenty years, Paul has shared his work through talks, workshops, readings and keynote presentations across the UK, Europe and North America.

His speaking draws on internationally recognised projects including The Pansy Project, Birds Can Fly, and his book, Pansy Boy, combining lived experience, visual storytelling and gentle activism.

Paul's approach is warm, thoughtful and accessible, creating space for reflection, conversation and connection. Paul regularly works with LGBTQ+ organisations, Pride events, libraries, schools, museums and workplaces, adapting each session to the needs of the audience.
